Spring 2010

How to get the grade you want:

- A Clearly understand the ideas, and almost always get the answer.
- B Understand the main ideas, and usually get the answer.
- C Understand some of the main ideas, and often get the answer.
- D Vaguely understand some of the main ideas, and sometimes get the answer.
- F None of the above.

How I tell:

- 80% Hour exams
- 10% Quizzes
- 10% Class participation, as described below
- 5% Online homework

Some details:

- You will have homework assignments on a weekly basis. This is your opportunity to learn the material outlined in class.
You will have weekly quizzes. These are primarily for you to assess your own understanding.
You will have four hour exams. These are my primary assessment of your understanding, and will largely determine your grade.
- People who actively engage in discussion in class or during office hours will earn special consideration when I assign course grades. This is what I mean by “Class participation” above.
- I will give you a make-up exam only if I judge your absence to be due to good cause. Where appropriate, I will expect documentation. Make-up exams may be oral exams. If you know in advance that you must miss an exam, please let me know in advance.
